

ROYAL COLLEGE OF CHIROPRACTORS PAIN FACULTY LIVE WEBINAR SERIES

Moving beyond 'body region silos' to manage musculoskeletal pain: Actions to change clinical practice

SERIES OUTLINE

Clinical research, education and practice commonly approach musculoskeletal pain conditions in silos with clinical guidelines, conferences and working groups focusing on specific body regions such as knee, hip, neck, shoulder and back.

However, emerging evidence demonstrates that musculoskeletal pain disorders are frequently comorbid and share common biopsychosocial risk profiles for both pain and disability. Indeed, there is a broad consensus across clinical guidelines on the recommendations for best practice irrespective of body region, and a shift in focus away from regional conditions to the whole person is increasingly being advocated.

This series of four self-contained but related webinars will explore the key actions clinicians can take to adapt their practices towards providing effective, person-centred care.

Webinar 1 - Tuesday 11th August, 7pm – 8pm BST – registration opens 3rd August

Jan Hartvigsen Providing whole person, team-based care

Webinar 2 - Wednesday 26th August, 7pm – 8pm BST – registration opens 18th August

Annabel Kier Educating beyond words using active learning approaches

Webinar 3 - Wednesday 9th September, 7pm – 8pm BST - registration opens 2nd September

Bronwyn Sherriff Embracing patient-centred communication

Webinar 4 - Wednesday 23rd September, 7pm – 8pm BST – registration opens 15th September

Peter Stilwell Coaching towards self-management

REGISTRATION:

RCC members: FREE. Contact admin@rcc-uk.org to register.

Non-members: £25 per webinar.

Registrations will open consecutively here www.rcc-uk.org/rcc-events

N.B. Non-members wishing to book all four webinars, do not book online but contact us at admin@rcc-uk.org for a 25% discount.

